REFLECTIONS

Leonard Sullivan
 "Whose Oil is it Anyway?"

Whose oil is it? The Bible in Genesis reads God created the Heaven and the Earth and all of its resources and gave man dominion over everything.

Is God some cruel prankster? Has He placed large reserves of oil in places like the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge (ANWR) and other locations expecting us never to use them? Are those resources there for our use? Or should the leftist environmentalist be allowed to use the dangers of energy production to wreck our economy? Alaska's ANWR isn't Yellowstone or Yosemite. It is the wisdom of God that placed oil in this remote area so no one would be disturbed by its recovery.

We need more oil to make gasoline and other products and ANWR is just one of the locations of great resources and we should recover it now.

In the early days there was plenty of oil near the surface and it was easy to gather and use. There was plenty of oil for greasing wagon axles, kerosene lamps and for making gasoline to fuel the first automobiles. As our economy grew so did the demand for the energy we needed to keep growing. Millions of autos, airplanes diesel trains, homes and businesses with central heat and air conditioning, all helped our society become more productive and the envy of the rest of the world.

Those days of easy-to-recover oil are no more, but drilling techniques have improved with greatly advanced efficiency and safety with Oklahomans leading the way.

God blessed America with freedom and an abundance of resources. Let us develop and use American resources to reduce our reliance on unreliable cartel sources. Energy independence ensures America will continue to be a leader creating greater freedoms for those oppressed around the world. Let's quit second-guessing God and make use of the resources He place here for our use.

How can our President oppose an oil line from central Canada to Stroud, Oklahoma that can deliver millions of barrels of oil annually to our energy starved nation? God has done his part. Now it is up to man.

Favorite Paul Harris Quotes

(from www.rotary.org)

- "The way to war is a well-paved highway and the way to peace is still a wilderness."

- "A real decision is measured by the fact that you've taken a new action. If there's no action, you have't truly decided."

- "What one man can do himself directly is but little. If however he can stir up ten others to take up the task he has accomplished much."

- "Wealth, like happiness, is never attained when sought directly. It comes as a by-product of providing a useful service."
